

More information to consider for Project Description item 4e “Ethical considerations to participants and the community at large.”

- Recruitment: Is there any potential for undue influence/coercion in recruitment?
- Stigma, individual and community harm: Have you considered any ramifications of the project for the individual participants and for the community as a whole?
- Privacy/confidentiality: Is there potential for breaches of privacy? (e.g. video vs. audio recording).
- Data security: Are there any concerns? Is the data management plan appropriate?
- Incentives/payments to participants: Are these fair?
- Budget: Fair payment to both partners.
- Community dissemination of results: Return of results to community described.
- Academic publication: Will community partners be engaged enough in the study planning, data collection, and data analysis so that they can be as co-authors? (may refer to ICMJE requirements for authorship).
